Question

Would the Minister outline any hospitality given to himself, his Assistant Minister and/or any of his senior officers by any firm (including any person involved in any way with such a firm) with whom the department has contracted with over the last three years or expects to contract with in the next two years?

Answer

In accordance with Code of Conduct for Ministers and Financial Direction 2.4 the department ensures that no excessive hospitality is given or received from individuals or firms with whom the department contracts with. The department's hospitality register shows that no hospitality or gifts were received of a value in excess of £200 in the last three years. This position is not expected to change in the next two years.
